NO. 6.

LONG-LEGGED NUMBER TEN.

A NEW MONSTER LOCOMOTIVE THAT IS TO DO GOOD WORK.

An Engine with Driving Whee's Six and a Half-Foot High that is to Make 90 Miles in 110 Minutes Despite Ordinary Obstacles.

From the N. Y. Sun.

There sped into the Pennsylvania Railroad yard yesterday a monster locomotive, upon which the eyes of railroad men and machinists everywhere may be said to be fastened.

She is technically known as the "new class K engine," the public will know her as No. 10, and already she has gained the name of the "long-legged loco." This latter title comes from the big driving wheel she rides upon, which stand six feet and six inches above the rails, or higher than an ordinary man wearing a silk hat. Five feet and eight inches is the height of the drivers of an ordinary anthracite engine. But it is only in the matter of her long four legs that the new monster engine is deficient. Herr Krupp, the famous Prussian cannon maker, has forged two pairs of drivers for her, making their centers of wrought iron and shrinking on to them ponderous steel tires. These did not come in time, and No. 10 bows along now on equally tall wheels of cast iron—not pot metal, but a fibrous cast iron, framed in the best of steel tires, cast on so that the seams are not perceptible. The Krupp wheels will be put under her as soon as they come.

No. 10 was made in the Altoona, (Pa.) shops, and is intended as an improvement upon the latest designs of fast and powerful passenger engines, wherein the highest aim sought is a locomotive that can be relied on to pull the heaviest trains over all grades against high winds and with the least possible liability toward hot box or low steam, on the quickest schedule time. There is no intention to shorten the schedule time between here and Philadelphia, for instance, but an engine is wanted that can be relied on never to fail to make that time. The later patterns of class K engines come near doing this, yet the ordinary causes affect them more or less. The other day one of these engines started from Philadelphia twelve minutes late and made Jersey City on time, but the very next day, when she was twelve minutes late, with almost the same train behind her, she had to face a gale like that of last Sunday, and though she worked her machinery harder, she only made up one minute. The railroad mechanics say that it is impossible to determine what causes a hot box, but that it stands to reason that a light box will heat sooner than a heavier one. Therefore No. 10 has heavy axles, and because big wheels will travel further with less movement of machinery her wheels are big.

No. 10 has immense power. She has eighteen-inch cylinders and a maximum steam pressure of 146 pounds. She has a greater fire surface by nearly fifty square feet than the next best locomotives, and this big fire box is gained in a peculiar manner. Instead of hanging inside the side frame with the springs on top of the frame, the boiler rests on the frame and the springs are beneath it. The width of the frame is thus gained for the fire box and the boiler's steaming capacity is materially increased. To meet this and get the added force of steam in and out of the cylinders, large and massive valves that give a great area of steam port are one of the especial features of the new engine. This force, in turn, is too great for the engineer to reverse the machine by the ordinary lever. It would require an expenditure of strength that would tire him out in an ordinary run. Therefore, there has been added a steam reversing gear worked by a lever placed just beneath the air brake lever in front of the engineer's seat. A baby could move it, and any one could quickly learn how to use it.

To the lay observer there is but little new about the new engine except its immense size, height, and plainness. It is without doubt the plainest engine running out of New York. Locomotive builders are gradually arriving at the simplicity of the English engine, and No. 10 is simply a long, tall, black thing, with the boiler so high in air that the smoke stack had to be cut off short in order to let it under the ordinary bridge and such old-style tunnels as those at Trenton. Where there is ornamentation in other engines this has simplicity. The cab is in a square box, and the dome has lost all the old-time lines of beauty, and is nothing more than a kettle bottom up. The parallel rods that connect the driving wheels are not only plain steel rods, but all the wedge like keys and pins that were really intended to take up the lost motion, are gone, and the rods are now like the first ones ever built on an engine—plain steel rods with solid eyes, and having a composition metal bushing. The tender is nothing but a black box, on which the painter has put only a single parallelogram of thin gilt lines, but there is no economy elsewhere. The machine weighs a ton more than any other passenger motor, and this ton is made up solely by making the parts that bear the strain as heavy as possible. The monster is fifty-seven feet long, and the top of the smoke stack is eleven feet and a half from the rail. With her boiler full of water and a fire in her box the engine weighs 92,600 pounds, and the tender, starting out with coal and water, weighs 73,000 pounds.

Engineer Covert, who is in charge of the engine, pulled the throttle open in Philadelphia at 7:35 o'clock yesterday morning, and, though delayed eight minutes at Trenton, put her through to Jersey City on schedule time in one hour and fifty minutes. This was only miles in 102 minutes.

"She goes like a bird," he said, as he dismounted, adding, "and she rides as easy as a rocking chair."

Yesterday afternoon Covert held the monster's lever ahead of the fast 4 o'clock express to Philadelphia. The ferryboats delayed him four minutes, but the operator who saw the dash of the train as it thundered past South Elizabeth reported her less than one minute late. There were trifling delays, and this one minute was yet against her at Trenton. Seven miles from Philadelphia there was an obstruction, and she was held three minutes. Covert rode into West Philadelphia late, just three minutes, having had to make the ninety miles in 113 minutes, with three stops, entailing in stoppage, loss of headway, and the regaining of headway, between fifteen and twenty minutes.

A "stop" is reckoned a loss of two minutes, and a "slow-up" is put at one minute and a half. The railroad officials say that not long ago engineer Omond, driving an ordinary anthracite engine ahead of a delayed section of the fast line west, came from Philadelphia to Jersey City in ninety-three minutes, having made four stops and five slow-ups, so that he lost sixteen minutes and made the ninety miles in seventy-seven minutes. The best time yet made by the new long-legged engine was made on her trial trip last week between Huntington and Altoona, a thirty-four mile stretch, every foot of which is up-grade. She made one mile in fifty-seven seconds and another mile in fifty-eight seconds; but the fact of most value to railroad men who watched her was that everything about her ran cool.

ART EDUCATION FOR THE MASSES.

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." The last few years have seen a revolution which will be of more lasting benefit to the human race than any battle ever fought. The advance made in the art of printing in the last ten years has done more for human happiness and intelligence than any war in history. The development of chromo printing has almost entirely done away with the cheap wood prints colored by daubing on red and blue paints, and brought a really high standard of art within the reach of poor people. The hero of this bloodless victory is L. Prang, a Prussian by birth, who fled to England during the rebellion of 1848. He had been liberally educated in his own country, and spent some time in the study of wood engraving. In England he continued the study, and gave such brilliant promise that he was sent by a wealthy firm to travel for five years on the Continent, that he might learn all that was known of the art of engraving. When still a young man he came to this country, but found no better field for his chisel than cutting pictures for Frank Leslie. His life's work was found after he established the house of which he is still the head, and began scattering cheap pictures and cards among the masses. His work has been of a two fold nature. It has gratified the love of the beautiful in those who had artistic tastes, and has developed it in those who had none. In the matter of cards; such as business cards, valentines, birth-day and holiday cards, there has been a great revival since Prang has turned his attention to them. St. Valentine was almost forgotten, and, until a year ago, it seemed as if the observance of the day would cease entirely. But last year and this an immense number of valentines were sold. Prang has established an agency in San Francisco, and has as a representative Joseph H. Dorey, who is extending the business constantly. He is a courteous and obliging gentleman, and is an able supporter of the great art and educational publication house.

OUR WEALTH OF WATER.

It is one of the articles in every Washoe county man's creed that in the Truckee river we have an enormous water power, and that Reno will be a great manufacturing city, but just when or how it will be developed, no one has demonstrated. In a recent visit to California we gained an idea which may in time prove valuable here. C. E. Sherman, a practical as well as an educated man, has used the water power of Kern river in a new way. He runs two large air compressors by a turbine wheel under an 18-foot fall. The compressed air he conducts through a 4-inch pipe up and down over the mountains for six miles to the mine, where he runs his hoisting works and a 20-stamp mill by it. He uses two National compressors, 21 inches in diameter with 42-inch stroke, and carries from 60 to 80 pounds pressure of air in the pipes. His mine is hundreds of feet above the river, but the higher the better, for there is less resistance at higher altitudes. Mr. Sherman was discouraged by every one he talked to about this matter. They said he would need 12-inch pipe, and that would cost $30,000. They said his air would escape, and all that, but he persevered and won. His pipe is buried in the ground so the sun cannot warp it, and it is a very cheap power. Two men handle the whole affair, and there is neither wood nor water to buy. We need not stop to point out how easily factories or quartz mills, etc., could be run anywhere on the Truckee by such a combination.

Two Professors' Kisses.

Kissin, a pretty little female student in a fatherly manner is what caused the resignation, by request, of Prof. Tiesburg from St. Olaf's College at Northfield. Prof. Lynne also resigned for the same sort of familiarity with the same subject.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Don't be surprised at anything you read about carp. The papers are now full of carp stories, and all kinds of information about this curious fish. At the meeting of the American Fish Cultural Association in New York last week, a carp sharp (after telling a story of a carp which survived an experience of two hours and a half out of water) said: "I would still further inform those who may have carp in their ponds not to be astonished if, after placing them in one pond, after a lapse of a month or two they find them in an adjacent pond having no connection with the first. The fact is, the carp will jump three feet, and then like an eel, wriggle its way over damp grass and make its way to other waters."

Sir Julius Benedict, the famous London composer who, as pianist and director, accompanied Jenny Lind in her American tour in 1850, has written a biographical and critical paper on "The Swedish nightingale" for the May Scribner's. The article is said to contain interesting comparisons of her with Malibran and other contemporary artists. The accompanying portrait of Jenny Lind, engraved by Closson from an old daguerreotype, taken while she was in America, will be a striking feature of the number. At the end of his article, Sir Julius hints that he may follow this paper with another, upon the subject of musical conservatories in this country.

With reference to the Kalloch acquittal, the N. Y. Nation speaks of San Francisco as "a community where the administration of justice is uncertain, the officers of Government are corrupt, and public sentiment is content to let 'personal difficulties' settle themselves by Corsican methods, without the trouble of hiring a lawyer and going before a court. One of the results of such a state of things is that the courts come to be more and more discredited as a means of procuring punishment, until the habit of satisfying private vengeance outside of them gets to be higher law."

The Louisville Courier-Journal tells a remarkable tale of a needle which penetrated the foot of a lady nine years ago and worked its way upward, causing her great pain at times. The pain disappeared some months previous to the birth of her third child. That child is now a year old, and the other day the needle which had caused its mother so much suffering was found protruding from its thigh and was extracted.

A story is going the rounds of the papers about a Boston girl who is turning into bone, or as it is expressed at the "hub" is "ossifying." The process of conversion should not occupy much time, if there is any truth in the popular impression that a Boston girl is pretty much all bone anyhow.

A Call correspondent called on Wheeler the strangler. He found two ladies ahead of him engaged in administering the consolations of religion to the soon-to-be sainted murderer. His table was covered with bouquets that had accumulated during the day.

A Florida man applied for the place of Sergeant-at-Arms of the U. S. Senate, stating as his qualification, "I am six feet high and strong in proportion. The Silver State says that Miss Sallie Fall, daughter of John C. Fall late of Unionville, "is perhaps the most accomplished young lady in San Francisco." This is certainly a very liberal length of "taffy" for Miss Sallie.

A man was arrested in Sacramento last Saturday on a charge of cruelty to animals. He had beaten a mule which kicked him. Public sympathy is with the man and not the mule.

Strangers must be objects of curiosity in Alturas. The Modoc Independent says: "Several strangers have been seen on our streets this week."

LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEVADA
Passed by the Tenth Session of the Legislature, 1881.

CHAP. LI.—An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to amend an Act entitled 'An Act to regulate proceeding in civil cases in the Courts of Justice of this State, and repeal all other Acts in relation thereto,'" approved March 8, 1869; approved March 5, 1877; approved February 26, 1879.

[Approved February 26, 1881.]

The people of the State of Nevada, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section One of the Act of which this Act is amendatory is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION One, Section Three Hundred and Seventy-nine of said Act is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

SECTION Three Hundred and Seventy-nine. No person shall be allowed to testify under the provisions of Section Three Hundred and Seventy-seven when the other party to the transaction is dead, or when the opposite party to the action or the person for whom in immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended, is the representative of a deceased person, when the facts to be proved transpired before the death of such deceased person; provided, that when such deceased person was represented in the transaction in question by any agent who is living, and who testifies as a witness in favor of the representative of such deceased person, in such case the other party may also testify in relation to such transaction, and nothing contained in said Section shall affect the laws in relation to attestation of any instrument required to be attested; provided further, that when husband or wife is insane and has been so declared by a commission of insanity or in due form of law, the other shall be a competent witness to testify as to any fact which transpired before or during such insanity, but the privilege of so testifying shall cease on the restoration to soundness of the insane husband or wife unless upon the consent of both, in which case they shall be competent witnesses.

Why the Modoc Medicine Man's Life is Not a Happy One.

An Indian known as Jack Harris, dwelling among the Modocs near Alturas, was some time ago made the "medicine man" of his tribe, though much against his will. The position is one of honor but not of much emolument, and is attended with considerable danger. If a big man of the tribe dies, a time-honored custom requires that the doctor shall be put to death. Dr. Harris failed to effect a cure in an important case last week, and his death was determined on. A party detailed for his execution surprised in his wigwam, and bore him away to execution. But another party rushed to the doctor's rescue, and bore him to the residence of an influential white man, where the unfortunate medicine man now repose in safety.

Entertainment and Dance This Evening.

Prof. H. C. Eastman, the well-known elocutionist, assisted by talent from Virginia, will give an entertainment in Reform Club hall this evening. There will be readings, recitations, singing, etc. One-half of the proceeds go to the W. T. U. A dance will follow the entertainment, for which the music will be furnished by the Amateur Quadrille Band. Admittance to the entertainment 25 cents, to the dance 50 cents.

Peter Dalton's Case.

The trial of Peter Dalton, the rancher, on a charge of maliciously obstructing a highway, was commenced in the Justice's Court to-day. Lindsay & Dickson appear for the defendant. District Attorney Rankin conducts the prosecution assisted by Mr. Boardman. A jury was being impaneled at 2 o'clock. The trial is likely to last several days.

SHAMEFUL CRUELTY.

Miss Mordaunt's Own Story of Her Treatment in the So-Called Orphan's Home.

Yesterday the GAZETTE re-published from the Carson Appeal a statement made by Mrs. Wilson, respecting the treatment of orphans in the Home at Carson. Mrs. Wilson's statement alleged especially brutal treatment of Vivian Mordaunt, who was twelve years old at the time she was taken from the Home and placed in Bishop Whitaker's School For Girls. In order to ascertain the truth of Mrs. Wilson's statement respecting Miss Mordaunt, a GAZETTE reporter visited the Bishop's School, and obtained the following statement from the young lady. It is as given in her own words, and without questioning:

"One morning after I had finished my work, I went to ask Mrs. Mills to look at it, and she told me to make over some of the beds and put clean spreads on them. There had been a lady there who used to sleep in the nursery and help take care of the smallest children, and when she went away, she left a towel in the bath room, and Mrs. Mills asked me about it and I told her I had forgotten about it. Mrs. Mills said: 'Why don't you answer me?' I told her I did not answer, and she said I didn't. Then she said, 'I'll make you answer; and then I went into the dark room to get the spread from one of the beds, and she came in with the rawhide and shut the door. Then she commenced whipping me till my back was black and blue. Then I took the dirty clothes down to the laundry, and there were three or four girls there, and the laundry woman asked me what was the matter, and I said I had been whipped. Then she unbuttoned my dress, and looked at my back and then sent one of the boys to tell Mr. Mills to come in. He came in and asked what was the matter, and she told him to look at my back. He said: 'Who did that?' and she said, 'Your wife.' Mr. Mills said: 'That is none of your business.' Then they began to quarrel about it, and I went out. Mrs. Mills sent for me and asked what I had told Mr. Wilson for. I said: 'I did not tell her till she asked me.' Then Mrs. Mills locked me up in the closet and kept me there all day."

In answer to questions Miss Mordaunt said: "My back was sore and hurt me for about three days. It had gotten well before I came to Reno. None of the ladies in this school examined my back. Mr. Raum [her guardian] asked me all about it, but did not look at my back."

The teachers of the School for Girls say that since Miss Mordaunt entered the School she has been uniformly gentle in her manner, obedient, tractable, and truthful.

Have All the Big Carson Booms Ended Thus?

The Carson Times says: "It cannot be denied that Carson at present is in a depressed condition, and that many look upon the town as an undesirable place of residence. It is argued that our resources are shadowy and unsubstantial; that the completion of the Carson & Colorado railroad will work a decided injury, owing to the withdrawal of the teaming interests; that we have no mines which have paid for working; no manufacturing interests of any importance; four daily papers are in existence; the town is run upon the principle: 'When you meet a stranger: take him in,' and generally that the outlook is bad."

A Live Tarantula Found 150 Feet Under Ground.

To this story the Bodie Free Press gives the weight of its authority: "A singular strike was made in the Syndicate on Monday. At a depth of 150 feet, old Osceola vein, in a small cavity in the center of an otherwise solid vein of quartz, four feet in thickness, was found a live tarantula as large around as the top of an ordinary teacup. Superintendent R. K. Colcord has the specimen imprisoned in his residence near the Syndicate mill, and the bird is as lively as a cricket."

Grasshopper Eggs up North.

F. Lemmons, of Long valley, was in town to-day. He says that in digging post holes on his ranch yesterday large numbers of grasshopper eggs were unearthed. The eggs are thick all over Long and Sierra valleys, but no grasshoppers have been seen in either, so far this season. Chat Roberts reports plenty of eggs on his ranch. The prospects seem good for plenty of grasshoppers in the northern valleys this season.

Fatal Shooting at Candelaria.

The Carson Tribune say: Doe Callison, a well-known missing operator of Emeralds county, had a row over a game of cards, at Candelaria on Sunday, with George Turner, formerly Deputy Sheriff of White Pine county, which resulted in the shooting to the death of Turner by Callison. No further particulars have been received.

RENO'S CATTLE SHIPMENTS.

The Seaton's Sales About 7,000 Head, Valued at $227,000.

The shipments of cattle from Reno for the season now drawing to a close make a total much smaller than that of the shipments for the previous season. There are several reasons for this decrease. Cattle men were dissatisfied with the treatment they received from the ranchers in this valley during the winter of '79-'80. The cattle men allege that the ranchers then exacted high prices for hay. They say that they would put cattle on a ranch where hay was offered at a certain rate agreed upon, and when the first lot of hay purchased had been eaten up, the price for a further supply would be raised on them without any general advance in the market to justify it. Because of this dissatisfaction number of cattle buyers did not come here at all this season, and bought at Winnemucca instead. Then again, many cattle were driven over the Sierra last fall and fed at Marysville and other places for the market. This left a comparatively small number to be shipped from this side of the mountains.

The shipments to California for this season to date have been as follows:

Months. Carloads.

September, '80 ..... 40

October, do ..... 3

November, do ..... 15

December, do ..... 16

January, '81 ..... 18

February, do ..... 89

March, do ..... 130

April, do ..... 23

Total ..... 334

The cattle shipped this season averaged about 19 head to a carload, making a total of 6,346. There are about 600 more to be shipped so that the grand total for the season will be close upon 7,000 head. The average price paid this season, according to the estimate of Mr. Brooke, the well-known buyer, was about $32 per head, so that the total value of the season's shipments of 7,000 head is in the neighborhood of $227,500. The highest price paid per head this season was $40.

In addition to the cattle shipped to California, about 600 head per month are sent to the Comstock market.

Personal.

Daniel O'Keefe has returned from the East.

Col. Moore telegraphs that he will arrive to-night.

R. M. Chase has been appointed Superintendent of the Savage.

Frank Bell's wife and children have returned from Oakland.

Dr. Lewis reports that Miss Emery is getting better at Oakland.

R. M. Green, agent for Slaven's preparations, is in town. He is a Buckeye boy and a rasher.

Wm. Sprague of Eureka has brought his wife to Reno for her health. And yet the Eureka papers brag of the superior salubrity of Eureka's climate.

District Court Notes.

Douglas vs. Wooten—Motion to set aside verdict and judgment sustained. Plaintiff excepted. Plaintiff moves for judgment upon the pleadings.

Singer Manufacturing Co. vs. S. N. Davidson—Demurrer sustained. Plaintiff allowed five days to amend complaint.

Mini vs. Croce—Hearing of motion for new trial set for this evening at 7 o'clock.

J. M. Blanchard vs. J. Storer et al.

Default of Storer entered. Decree of foreclosure ordered.

A Boy Can Locate a Mine.

According to the Free Lance, it has been decided by J. Armstrong, Acting Commissioner of the Land office, that if the locator of a mining claim be under the age of 21 years the location is not rendered, thereby, invalid. In other words a minor can locate a mining claim.

The Fair Grounds Transferred.

The Agricultural Society has deeded the Fair grounds to S. W. Bowman, in order to save him the expense of foreclosing. He will rent the grounds to the Society at a moderate charge.

It goes right to the spot.

This homely but expressive phrase adequately describes the effect of a glass of Mrs. Myers' drink with hot water or ice, with lemonade, soda water or milk. Every sideboard should have it sold by all grocers, wine merchants and druggists. Trade supplied by Richards & Harrison, Agents for Pacific coast, San Francisco.

—A girl is wanted to do house work. See 50-cent ad.

—The new mill commenced to crush ore to-day, but the pans will not start until to-morrow.

—F. C. Cutts has a force of men at work in his brick yard. He will burn about 150,000 bricks this time.

—There is a bad bridge on Millstreet near the V. & T. R. R. track south of the river where the road crosses the flume.

—Stocks showed a strong advance this morning. It may be that the traditional "spring rise" has fairly commenced.

—The Supreme Court has ordered a new trial in the case of A. H. Manning, Appellant, vs. M. J. Smith, Respondent.

—M. McClellan did the trapeze act at the pavilion last evening while the skaters were resting. He will repeat it this evening.

—Allen has in another lot of those fine imported cigars, which he sells at a bit apiece. He has also opened up a large assortment of delicacies pictures and artists' materials.

—C. P. Soule has a handsome white horse which he has owned for four years. It cost him $35 to have the horse brought here from Austin. An Indian rode the animal all the way.

—C. P. Soule is about to move into the Marsh house, which M. C. Lake has just vacated. Mr. Lake, as landlord of the spacious hostelry which bears his name, finds it necessary to dwell therein.

—Thieves invaded Jos. Long's chicken house last night, and made off with some half dozen fowls. Presently some chicken thief will be shot as that the grand total for the season will be close upon 7,000 head. The average price paid this season, according to the estimate of Mr. Brooke, the well-known buyer, was about $32 per head, so that the total value of the season's shipments of 7,000 head is in the neighborhood of $227,500. The highest price paid per head this season was $40.

—The advertisement of Arpad Haraszthy appears elsewhere. He is agent for Eclipse Champagne, which is unexcelled, and all kinds of table wines and liquors. Mr. Haraszthy is President of the wine

A ROM N'IAU IR L'AN.

Spending Five Days in Jail for Kissing A Young Lady.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

A young Australian of German descent traveled all the way from Sydney to Berlin to be present at the festivities surrounding the recent marriage of the presumptive heir to the throne. On the Friday before the nuptials he was promenading under den Linden and contemplating the adornments of that noble thoroughfare in a perfect rapture of enthusiasm, when he beheld approaching a maiden of amazing beauty. Fancying that every one as well as himself, must have been lifted above the arbitrary regulations of ordinary existence into an ideal world, he clasped the girl to his breast and gave her a fervent though Platonic kiss. Unfortunately she did not accept the attention in the ideal spirit, but forthwith handed the Australian over to an unromantic policeman, who promptly presented him at the proper tribunal. Interrogated as to his motive, the ardent Teuton pleaded that "his joyful impulses had outstepped his discretion, and irreversibly stimulated him to salute an incorporate ideal of German maidenhood." The defence produced not the slightest impression upon the official heart, and the enthusiast was sent to prison for five days. When he emerged the festive which he had traveled 12,000 to see was over. No doubt certain rour persons of loose ideas would maintain that he ought to have got off scot-free in consideration of his having discovered a really beautiful German girl.

Animated Scene in a Colorado Church.

"How much is the ante," whispered a Red Gulch miner with a single $20 gold piece to the deacon with the collection plate in the Baptist Church at Black Run, Col. He was told to contribute whatever he chose, whereupon he said he'd chip a dollar, and proceeded to take $19 change. The deacon softly replied that no change was given. A struggle ensued, the plate was upset and the congregation were in the act of "jumping the deacon's claim," when the minister, an old Californian, leaned over the pulpit with a large navy revolver and observed: "The brethren will please take notice that I've got the drop on them, and any brother who declines to go to his seat or who touches any of that money will have a funeral at his house to-morrow at 2 o'clock P. M. Our mining friend from Red Gulch will kindly release the deacon's throat or he is a dead man." The $20 gold piece went to save the heathen.

Is thorough in its Medicinal Action, and yet so agreeable to the taste that patrons often disregard our injunction to divide the lozenge into parts (say two doses) to meet their respective cases. At the outset it is especially essential to observe the directions closely till one becomes accustomed to its use—when mild action and the most satisfactory results are sure to follow.

Ladies and children, and those who dislike taking pills and medicines to relieve certain ailments, are especially pleased with its agreeable qualities.

Try it once, and you will esteem it highly as a safe, pleasant, and effective remedy.
